Near a stream where roamed the savage
Long time ago,
But where more late has grown the cabbage
In row by row—
There dwelt a cove straight as an arrow,
In statue low;
Cabbage heads he sold from barrow He of name and fame bethought him Long time ago; His shrewd and crafty canning taught him The path to go; While to hope's fond words he listened Mermuring low,
Joyously his fox eyes glistened
Long time ago. Devices deep and artful raised him For his acts have any praised him?
Oh: no fine, no.
Soon from office he'll be bundled
With leave to go—
Where his cabbages he trundled

MONEY MARKET.

Long time ago

Wednesday, August 14-6 P. M. Some little reaction from the great depression of yesterday as manifest at the stock exchange today. Although the amount of business done was nearly the same, yet prices evinced more busyancy. Dry Dock Bank improved † per cent; Harlem † per cent; U.S. Bank † per cent. The N. American Trust and Bank receded ! per ct; Bank of Commerce † per cent. Money continues exceedingly tight, and bonds of some of the new banks have been offering in the street today at 2 a 3 per cent per

The situation of commercial and financial affairs in the U-States is allowed on all sides to be in an artificial and unhealthy state, arising from the speculations in every description of property which reached their height in 1836. Since that period but very little disposition for new enterprize has been evinced, for the reason that the means, the attention, the hopes, th fears of every class of dealers have been directed to the realization of fortunes, which they then fancied they possessed rather than to the acquirement of new property Real estate, pro-duce, merchandize, stocks, corporate and public, have all been desperately maintained by persons grasping at shadows while substantial business has been slipping from them. This position of affairs, creating great fluctuation in the prices of that de-scription of property, the intrinsic value of which depended upon future contingencies, affords great opportunity to cliques of gambling specu ators to prey upon the vitals of the commu-nity and eat out its substance, while it is amused with false representations of "reactious" and "improved prices " The stock market presents the most marked features of this descript on of operation. Stocks, really worth nothing, are daily bought and seld in the market by a system which amounts to little else than a bet between the parties that the price of a certain description will be either higher or lower than a given point on a certain day; every effort and rumor is then put in requisition by each party to produce the desired effect. The state of the prices affords no other guide to the state of the money market than the case or difficulty which needy dealers experience in obtaining money " to hold." The following are some of the stocks in which the greatest fluctuation are observable since the commencement of the present year, showing the price on the first of each month :-

operations of this company since 1834, by their official reports, appear to have been conducted on a scale, precisely similar to the general spirit of borrowing, to supply deficiencies which have laterly pervaded every financial transaction, from the Treasury notes of the general government down to the humblest holder of cotton. To illustrate this position, we have carefully compiled from the company's reports, for four years, a table of the expenditures, and also the amount of coal produced. Statement of the expenditures of the Delaware and Hudson for years, including the report of the 4th March 1839:

If we take the aggregate expenditures for these four years at divide the the sum by the aggregate amount of coal received at adout, we shall have the cost per ton, as follows:-

Expenditures in		Ceal received at
1832.	5397,931	Rondout,	84,600	tons.
1834.	297,235		43,700	**
1887.	586.182		115,387	**
1838,	411,042		76,321	**
Total expend tures	, $1,692,290	Coal received, Deduct wastage,	320,608
Nett tous sold in four years,				**

This cost it appears $1,692,290, or $5.90 per ton; at this rate the whole amount of coal (564,417 tons,) received at Rondout for the seven years ending in 1839, would give an aggregate cost of $3.330 060. While the sales of the coal during the same time, as appears from the returns, did not average $4.50, or a gross amount of $2,529,876, exhibiting a less in the coal business of the Company of $790,184, which loss appears to have been made good by an increase of capital to the amount of $470,000; and proceeds of canal tolls of $274,000, and of real estate $60,000, making $504,000. The general statement will then stand thus: 1831, capital stock, To increase of capita " canal tolls,	274,000	1838, By cost of coal, Sales,	1,915,600 $3,330,060 2,539,876

" Real estate,	5804,000		$790,194

Showing a balance to profit and loss of $13,816. These deduc ductions, from the Campany's own returns, are fully proved by the fact that the proceeds of the increase of capital, real estates and the canal tells, re entirely unaccounted for in any of the returns made by the Company; and in the last report, they present a balance of $382,313 on the whole seven years business, by representing the expenses for repairs on the Canal, amount. ing to $303,847, as increasing its value.

It thus appears that had not the Company, contrary to its charter increased its capital in 1834, it would now owe as ag. gregate debt of $1,534,000, and without such future assistance. it must annually lose $100,000 by its coal trade, or a larger or less cum, according to the quantity mined.

The following is the section of the act of incorporation limit ing in the charter:-" Whereas, by the act to which this is amendatory, the corporation thereby created, is authorized to use any capital that may be necessary to effect the object contemplated by the act, but the amount of original subscriptions is limited to $500,000: And whereas it it appears by actual surveys &c., that it will require a larger sum to make a canal, &c., therefore, he it exacted, that for the purpose of effecting the objects contemplated by the act to which this is amendatory, the subscription of $500,000, authorized by the first section thereof, shall be and the same is hereby enlarged to the sum of $1,000,000, any thing to the contrary notwithstanding." But without any sussequent application or notice given to the Comptroller we find the capital enlarged to $1,915,600.

The credit of the state was loaned to this Company, for the purpose of completing the works, to the amount of $800,000. which sura the Company is now indebted to the state .-The amount was tonged in two sums-the first was $500,000 The second loan of $300,000 was applied for while ex-Governor Marcey was Comstroller. He objected to the new loan on the ground that the business of the Company held out no prospect of their ever paying the first loan. The facts here repre seuted correborate his view, and the prospect of payment is as distant us ever, while the loan has served no purpose whatever but to furnish the basis of a stock which has long been the football of the jobbers. It has been bolstered and sextained, ygar after year, by borrowing and eredit, until the interest on i slooms knounts to $59,366, or nearly road. This view affords an apt illustration of the policy of the state governments which have gone on creating loans. until the interest, annually due Europe, amounts to 10 per cent, of our whole cotton crop. What chance is there, in either case of a payment of the principal? This credit system throughout must shortly find its end. The day of loans and stocks has passed, at least for a season—and all those institutious which depend upon credit rather than the legitimate proceeds of regular business for existence, will be unable to live through the coming crisis.

COTTON.—No change has transpired in this market since our last notice. Sales to a moderate extent have been made for exportation at last week's prices. The sales reach about 1900 bales of all descriptions, at 10 a 12½ for Florida, Mobile 10 a 13. Upland 9½ a 13½, New Orleans 10 a 13½. The first bale of cotton of the new crop, weighing 383 lbs. reached Augusta, (Geo.) on the 7th, from the Burke plantation of the Rev. Juriah Harris, and was stored (unsold) in the warehouse of Messrs. Dantignae & Hill. The color and staple is very good—ginning bad. This is very early for the new crop, and from appearance, the race is about to commence between the new crop and the old stock, giving a guarantee that prices will not now rise.—At Charleston on the 10th seme small lots were taken for shipment at 12½ a 13 cents per ib

RICE.—There is but little doing in this article. A moderate amount of sales has transpired, some of which was for shipment. Prices have not changed, and are still quoted at $4.62½ a 4.75. At Charleston the sales of the week embrace 422 tes. at extremes of 4½ a 4.7-16. At Boston the sales of the week amounted to 400 cks. partly for shipment and partly to the trade at 41 a 45.
